Diseases Of The Ureter

There may be obstructions due to congenital atresia or to various diseases and neoplasms. The result of such a condition is a dilatation of the ureter above the obstruction and of the kidney (hydronephrosis).

Diseases Of The Ureter

Urine formed in the kidneys flows through

Online Library Diseases Of The Kidneys Ureters

the ureters into the bladder, but it does not flow passively. The ureters push each small amount of urine along in waves of contraction, at low pressure. At the bladder, each ureter passes through an opening in the bladder wall, which closes when the bladder contracts to prevent urine from flowing back ...

If symptoms do occur, it is usually in the case of complete duplicated ureters. Duplicated ureters can occur with other abnormalities of the urinary system.

One of the more common is ureterocele. With this condition, the end of the ureter does not develop properly, and urine flow is obstructed.
