—Amos Wilson, The Falsification of Afrikan Consciousness [in] Cole (2000) Wilson further argued that the mythological notion of progress to which many Blacks subscribe, was a false one; that integration could only occur and persist, as a social-economic reality, so long as the U.S. and global economies continued to expand.

Amos N. Wilson - Wikipedia

By examining the processes involved in creating a Eurocentric consciousness and analyzing the rise and fall of African civilizations relative to cultural consciousness, Hopkins argues that African liberation can only be achieved and sustained through institutionalized cultural practices and economic productivity grounded in the African-centered paradigm.
